Colours and Materials

ROMPA® manufactures cushioning, furniture and soft play in a large range of fabrics and colours.

PVC (Vinyl)

The most durable, and popular, of all our fabrics. Extremely hard-wearing, PVC is easy to clean, water-resistant and treated with fungicide. Latex- and phthalate-free, this strong fabric has a polymer coating on both sides, making it rigid and helping products to maintain their shape. Our PVC has a 'Cape' or subtly textured and fungicidal finish, and is available in a huge spectrum of colours and tones. This extensive choice lends itself well to two-tone finishes, such as purple with lilac accents, or sky blue and light blue combinations. We can also print a range of motifs onto PVC, including your own imagery for bespoke solutions.

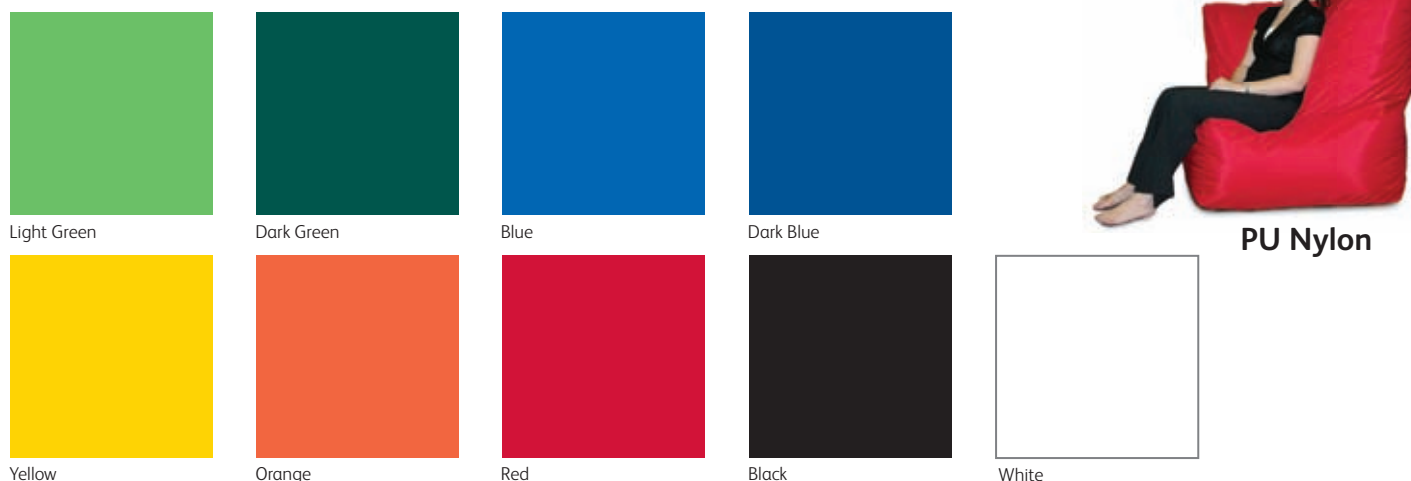

Products typically made in PVC include wall and floor cushions, ballpools, most soft play products, water beds, wedges and larger pieces of furniture.

PU Nylon

A polyurethane base fabric, which is slightly warmer to the touch than PVC. Water-resistant, latex- and phthalate-free like PVC, but unlike PVC, PU Nylon is single-sided and so breathable and more flexible. This makes PU Nylon best-suited to products which allow clients to sink into them and which mould to the user's shape.

Products typically made in PU Nylon include squashy seating such as the Supa Squashy Sofa, Splodges, Mini Floppy Islands and Sensory Cuddles..

Soft and Silky

As its name suggests, this is arguably the softest of our fabrics, and is similar in texture to suede. More akin to fabrics used in domestic furniture, this supple fabric is water-resistant, extremely comfortable, stain-resistant and antibacterial. Available in subtler shades of colour than PVC and PU Nylon, this fabric may be more age-appropriate for older adults. Although durable, this fabric has a short pile and is less hard-wearing than PVC. As such, it should not be chosen for areas of heavy use such as step treads or floor cushioning.

Products typically made in Soft & Silky include the Positioner, the Sensations E Chair and the Supa Squashy Sofa.

Polytran

Polytran

Extremely pleasant to the touch, this soft, matt finish fabric is perfect for products used for long periods of time. Latex - and phthalate - free, as well as flexible, this fabric is a knitted polyester with a polyurethane coating. This fabric has been specially selected for our Pos-Pod™ Modular Multi-System.

Products typically made in Polytran include wedges, rolls and cushions intended for positioning.

Fabrics used by ROMPA® have been selected for their high quality, reliability, durability and suitability for our marketplace. Our PVC, PU Nylon, Soft & Silky and Polytran fabrics are complimented by the use of high quality fillings such as bead and foams of various densities to allow us to manufacture an extensive range of soft and pliable or firm and supportive products. All our fabrics (and the products made from these and our fillings) meet appropriate fire-retardancy standards, and we can manufacture to Crib 5 and Crib 7 requirements by special order.

Our attention to detail is second to none – from our high quality non-slip fabric to the colour-matched threads that are used to hand-finish our products, ROMPA® has earned its reputation for consistently excellent standards.

This applies to our standard products, as well as to any bespoke solution requested by our customers. The colours shown here are from our standard range but we will gladly accommodate special requests for further colour options. Contact us for a fabric swatch to help you make your fabric and colour choices.

ROMPA® Bubble Tube

- See page 25

"Absolutely STUNNING

We couldn't be more pleased. We have only had cheap tubes before this one and the difference is astounding. When we first turned it on we all took a gasp it was so beautiful. It's so bright and vibrant. The actual bubbles are huge. The gurgling and vibration are very soothing. It's extremely sturdy and well built and shouts high quality product. Fantastic product, highly recommended."

Alexandra, Verified Buyer

LED Projector for Water Environments

"The transformation of the bathroom is magical. The projected image covers a large wall and makes the bathroom a much more relaxing place. Being able to change the effect wheel when I want to means that it's very quick to change the image. Perfect!"

Kate, parent

Corner Ballpool by ROMPA® - See page 101

"Fantastic Item for where space is an issue. We ordered this product back in 2006 for our daughter ... and it's still going strong! Really durable, tough vinyl ... and not a rip or tear in it 9 years on! I cannot praise highly enough how sturdy the walls are once fixed ... many a time 'perched' on by us when supervising daughter ... and no dents from our weight!! It's a fantastic design that can fix into any corner, utilising your existing walls for the rear 2 sides ... It was easy to fix with the wooden brackets attached, and has stayed put all these years with no problems at all! The inner floor mat is also tough ... made from heavy duty vinyl, which velcros on to the sides to fix. All in all, this ball pool scores highly with me 11/10 ... definitely a quality item that is well made and lasts many years, as mine has proven!"

Lisa, Verified Buyer

Basic Roller Board - See page 131

"My son loves this and so do we, he is much more calm after using the roller board!"

Liza M., Verified Buyer, Stirling

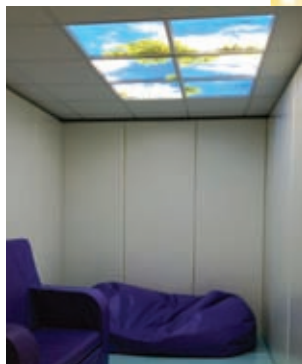

4R - See page 214

"Rest, Recovery and Re-Orientation Rooms can help by:

- Reducing the need to physically intervene
- Reducing the need for holding for long periods
- Reducing the need for staff involvement and numbers required
- Reducing potential injuries to the Young Person, others and staff
- Reducing inappropriate physical contact and possible allegations of staff abuse"

Tony Ryall, Trainer and Consultant

Snoezelen® Gardens

- See page 62

"My biggest dream for Archie was to see him play, something so simple that most take for granted! He needed an environment that would give him the space but also the time to learn and explore at his own pace without the stress and upset of overwhelming amounts of people and noises. His own special garden would be perfect! 3 weeks went by so quickly and there it was our beautiful garden and for the first time in 3 years I was finally able to take Archie outside to play ... a very special and emotional moment. Thankyou ... you made a dream a reality."

"A valuable resource for customers using our service at Goscote Centre. It provides multiple benefits where our customers can explore the sensory environment via the use of interactive beams. Uploading photographs personal to the individual using the system creates a unique experience which can be comforting, whilst enhancing learning and play. The sessions are tailored and personalised to meet individual need which is an objective we aim to achieve throughout our day to day service delivery. We use our system in many ways e.g. to develop interactive skills within small groups to encourage the users to take turns to activate the beams. For customers who benefit from visual stimulation seeing images that change as a result of their actions develops their understanding of cause and effect".

Emma Partridge, Senior Reablement Officer, Day Opportunities & Employment Adult Social Care

"The system has been a very accessible and exciting for our pupils. It is very responsive to the smallest movement so even our more physical disabled pupils have been able to produce sound and contribute to a greater sound installation, for example, our iPad Orchestra. Pupils were very keen to give it a go and experiment with the sound effects".

Ellen Croft, PMLD Curriculum Leader, Leicester

"Excellent for immediate engagement in a huge range of activities that can cover pretty much any area of the curriculum. For first-time musicians it can be used as an errorless method to explore an instrument or for those struggling to engage in maths, it can be subtly woven into numeracy-based activities... Easy to use which enables all the staff, regardless of their IT capabilities ... One of the greatest features is that it can be completely customised to suit the needs of a wide variety of learner profiles... Our learners have loved using the Optimusic system and are also realising the health benefits as 'Chase the Beam' has become enormously popular".

Chris Buckley, Head of Education, School in Seaford

"We use our Opti-music in all our themes created within our Curriculum Sensory Space.

These have included themed sessions such as the circus where students had the opportunity to sit or lay in a sensory swing and move around with batons or stick on pads to break the beams making various circus themed noises whilst pretending to be Acrobats.

On the Farm - students had great fun taking turns to guess what animal would appear on the screen and what noise they could hear when breaking the beams.

In our Native Americans theme the students had the opportunity to make up tunes using the drum programme and each took turns breaking a beam matching colour symbols to colour beam to create a drum beat for a pretend Pow Wow.

The Opti-music has become a valuable piece of equipment in our Curriculum Sensory Space and has given our students the opportunities to develop both fine and gross motor skills, concentration skills, social skills and most importantly independence by being able to explore and create to their own level of abilities".

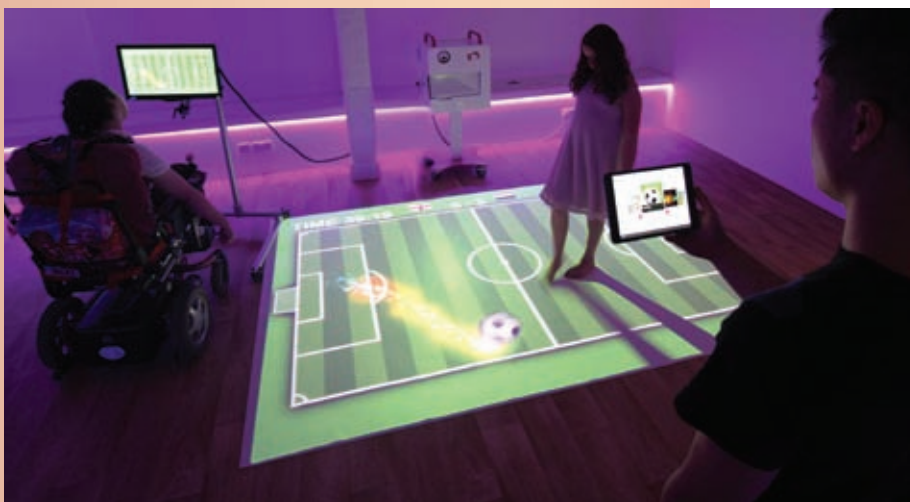

Clare Coombs (HLTA), School, Bracknell

To counteract the risk of bacterial growth in the bubble tube water the following procedures are suggested:

- * Monthly changing of the water using an appropriate pump

Sensory Profile Packs

Designed by the highly respected Lesley Collier of the University of Southampton to manage set patterns of behaviour that may be a result of sensory processing difficulties. These difficulties may be experienced by all generations from those with no clinical problems through to those with diagnoses such as Autistic Spectrum Disorder, Anxiety, Learning Disabilities, Alzheimer's disease, Schizophrenia and Stroke, amongst others. These packs are based around the Model of Sensory Processing (Dunn, 2001). In order to identify which sensory type you fall within the Sensory Profile or the Adult Sensory Profile will need to be completed. Each pack will include equipment that will provide a more appropriate level of stimulation to each of the senses; touch, sight, sound, smell and movement (proprioceptive and vestibular stimulation). Our Home Packs are intended for families to use to help provide appropriate stimulation at home. For 3 years and over. This pack may contain some small parts. Some of these products will require batteries.

"I bought this colour matching panel after many weeks of comparing all the panels on the market with plenty of different suppliers. My biggest criteria was to invest in something that would grow with Chelsea ' as she is currently only 6 years old and I didn't want her to lose interest in one as she grows. This really does fit the bill, we have downloaded some music onto it and played the game and I am confident it will be with us for many years to come. The extra bonus is that it is compatible with the other ROMPA® products so we get extra value through the wi fi microphone and 8 colour switch we have already purchased ... Very pleased with my purchase."

Magnetic or Standard Wheels and Accessories – Which Do You Need?

ROMPA® now offers Magnetic Wheels and Wheel Rotators, which are user-friendly and allow quick changes of projection effects, without the need for tools or installation experience. Our newer Projectors such as the ROMPA® Rainbow Wi Fi Projector and the Aura Projector are already compatible with Magnetic Wheels.

Traditional, Standard Effect Wheels are pushed onto Standard Wheel Rotators, which are then placed in the gate of the LED Projector. Standard Liquid Wheels are attached to the Standard Wheel Rotator by tightening a small screw. To change Standard Wheels, the Standard Wheel Rotator must be removed from the Projector first. Magnetic wheels can be attached onto the Rotator more quickly and easily, without the need to remove the Magnetic Rotator first. As the Magnetic Rotator and Magnetic Wheels have been purposefully designed for the special needs market, these products qualify for VAT Relief, saving money for those individuals who are eligible to claim VAT Relief.

We recommend that new customers choose Magnetic Wheels as these are easy to change.

We recognize that customers who have enjoyed Standard Wheels and Rotators for some time may want to continue to use these options, so these remain available. We are also offering a Magnetic Adapter to temporarily convert Standard Wheel Rotators into Magnetic versions for use with Magnetic Wheels for the best of both worlds. Please contact us for advice and suggestions if you are unsure which option you have or need.

Wheel Rotator

Needed to rotate the effect wheel in the LED Projectors. Fit the effect wheel onto the Rotator and slot the Rotator into either the front or back gate of the Projector. A Magnetic Rotator is for use with Magnetic Wheels. Choose a 5RPM Rotator for use with a Distortion Wheel. The ROMPA® Rainbow Wi Fi Projector and the Aura Projector do not require a separate Wheel Rotator as a magnetic one is built into these projectors.

- encourage reminiscence and conversation
- foster learning in educational settings

“Fantastic Item for where space is an issue. We ordered this product back in 2006 for our daughter ... and it's still going strong! Really durable, tough vinyl ... and not a rip or tear in it 9 years on! I cannot praise highly enough how sturdy the walls are once fixed ... many a time 'perched' on by us when supervising daughter ... and no dents from our weight!! It's a fantastic design that can fix into any corner, utilising your existing walls for the rear 2 sides ... It was easy to fix with the wooden brackets attached, and has stayed put all these years with no problems at all! The inner floor mat is also tough ... made from heavy duty vinyl, which velcros on to the sides to fix. All in all, this ball pool scores highly with me 11/10 ... definitely a quality item that is well made and lasts many years, as mine has proven!”

Vestibular and proprioceptive senses are often overlooked beyond the “traditional 5 senses”, although they form an essential part of our day to day lives.

Proprioceptive senses process information from our muscles, joints, and other body parts to provide us with an unconscious awareness of the position of our body parts in relation to each other, other people and objects.

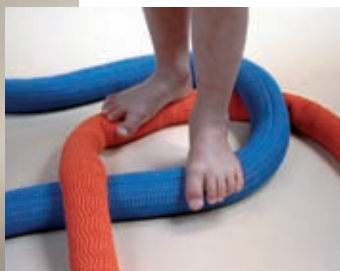

The Vestibular sense puts balance into our lives. It provides information about movement, gravity, and changing head positions. It tells us whether we're moving or we're still, as well as the direction and speed of our movement. We can even tell if we are vertical or horizontal – even with our eyes closed.

Combining the development of both Proprioceptive and Vestibular senses, the practice of Sensory Integration can assist in developing the ability to process this information.

ROMPA® is proud to be the exclusive European provider of therapeutic products from TheraGym®, a leading developer of the highest quality therapy solutions. TheraGym® products are high-quality and affordable - they are considerably less expensive than alternatives available elsewhere, without compromising on functionality or quality.

Body Roller

Provides deep pressure as the child crawls between the rollers for additional sensory input. In a similar way to babies being calmed by swaddling and being wrapped tightly in a blanket, deep pressure can be soothing and relaxing. Deep pressure is especially beneficial for children with ASD and ADHD, and can help reduce tactile defensiveness in those who cannot tolerate being touched (hypersensitivity or over sensitivity to touch). Providing appropriate sensory input through a product like this Roller may reduce self-stimulation and self-harming amongst children craving deep pressure. Moving through the rollers can help with motor planning, and can be used as part of imaginative play. Tension and pressure are easily adjusted to each user's specific needs – you can choose the appropriate level of proprioceptive feedback for your child. The rolls are fully padded which helps the child to relax. Available in red, green and blue – please specify colour choice when ordering. User weight limit: 136kg (300 lbs).

A fantastic swing to help develop tonic extension and integrate retained primitive reflexes. This also makes it very able to achieve supine positions. “The children love it and have given it many different names, such as the ‘zip wire’ and ‘thunder bolt’! The Beano Swing requires good core stability and tonic flexion as well as strength in the arms and legs to hold on. The swing is a challenge to master and we grade the activities to build up the child’s strength. We place a large beanbag underneath until they are able to independently hold on. This swing allows for accelerating linear movements that the child creates himself or the swing is used for rotational movements. The Beano Swing is an essential piece of equipment in our S. I. clinic.”

Annie Doubleday, Emma Jerman, Occupational Therapists

“Our new therapy is filled to the brim with Rompa® equipment and resources but the most popular Rompa® equipment that the children have just loved, has been the Beano Swing ... One recent task was to use the Beano Swing to knock down a tower made from the Soft Play, aiding a child seeking ‘crash and bump’ sensation and then also using the Beano Swing to drop down into the up-turned barrel helping motor planning and body awareness.”

Dominic Simpson, jigsaw Occupational Therapy Ltd

“ TheraGym® Tear Drop Swing

“This swing instantly seems to attract attention from the younger child, some of whom seem drawn to this and want to feel cocooned. They love the sense of safety that this provides, and feel secure in the swing. With a smaller opening than other swings, this gives a better sense of separation and physical boundary. They have described it as their bubble. Our sessions consider therapeutic space, such as activities working in close proximity and tight space, and being able to push against flexible boundaries feeling like ‘womb space’. It has therefore been a valuable swing in our Sensory Attachment Interventions too.”

“The platform swing is an essential swing in our S. I. clinic, as it allows for the child to work in different positions such as sitting, laying on their tummy or back. It is very versatile and allows for the task to be graded. We love to use the Tube Swing inside the platform to provide more postural support with gentle vestibular input. As the child improves their posture through the use of S. I., the challenges can increase and the child can lie or sit in different positions. The swing has ropes that the child can hold on to for support and we encourage the child to start to self-propel and move the swing themselves, as this is an excellent bilateral timing and coordination task, and provides proprioceptive input.”

R719721

£ 39.00

Children with sensory processing problems experience too much or too little stimulation through their senses, and struggle to integrate the sensory information they are receiving. Movements such as spinning can help children with sensory processing disorders to achieve an optimal level of sensory arousal and regulation. Through appropriate therapy and carefully chosen interventions, these children can be helped to make better sense of the world around them, which in turn will help them to feel safer, calmer and more confident. This can help children to achieve improved behaviours and better self-esteem.

Spinning activities are important tools in Sensory Integration therapy. Spinning stimulates the vestibular system. Children who are hyposensitive (those who actively seek sensory input and stimulation) often crave intense movement. These spinning products provide a safe outlet for such cravings.

Balance Disc

Ideal for varied balance exercises. Co-ordination, balance and automatic leg, buttocks and arm reactions are developed. Ideal for neuro-physiological therapy. The disc can also be used in water. Switch-Activated Spinner

Encourage people of all ages and differing abilities to enjoy interactive games together. Great for inclusion, this is large scale and accessible. Perfect for those who are unable to hold and throw traditional dice, and for those with visual impairments who cannot see the dots on a standard die face. Either press the red button on the front, or connect and activate your own switch to make the central arrow spin. Use in turn-taking to select random numbers instead of shaking one or two dice. Also excellent for early maths skills – add, subtract or multiply the numbers from both dice together, work out probabilities and use in matching games. Especially valuable in small groups as the spinner can be stood up on a table (using the integral fold-down legs) for everyone to see at once. For the less able, activation helps understanding of choice as well as of cause and effect as well as providing a multi-sensory reward – the spin is audible and produces a pleasant visual effect. Requires 2 AA batteries and a switch (both to be purchased separately). For 3 years and over.

The Mirrored Linelite Panel (page 34) is wall-mounted with a shielded UV light and will not harm the eyes of anyone sitting in its vicinity. However if a user is to continually stand at the light then exposure should be limited to 1 hour.

“Whilst the approach is intensive, and requires parental commitment, in our clinical experiences, we have found it to have consistently effective outcomes, such as improved tolerance to touch, taste and smell, improved sleep, reduced anxiety, improved toileting, and corrective perception of pain. Many parents have also reported to us that their child's diet has varied considerably, with better tolerance of food types and textures. It is thought that the deep touch pressure and proprioception provided by brushing, with the sensory diet, has a calming influence on the central nervous system and emotional centre in the brain”.

Simple Music Player

Many individuals with Dementia want to listen to music but are unable to use conventional music players because they find these too complicated to operate. This version is designed to overcome these problems as it helps to provide people with Dementia with music they remember in a way they can independently access themselves. Operated by lifting the lid, which automatically switches the unit on and plays a tune. If a new tune is desired, a single large button allows the individual to skip to the next track. Family, carers or friends set the volume (which is intentionally not easy to change by accident), as well as downloading tunes onto the player (easily via a USB link from a Windows, Apple or Linux PC).

Z-Vibe® & Z-Grabber™

Most people are either auditory or visual learners, but sometimes these senses are not enough and we need to consider the sense of touch. Speech and Language Therapists have been trained to use tactile input to teach clients how to lateralise their tongue, elevate their tongue tip, make a tongue bowl, close their lips, learn a rotary chew, position the articulators for sound production and other oral motor skills. Vibration provides a new level of sensory stimulation to increase awareness and to draw more acute attention to the articulators. Vibration can also be calming and organizing.

All these products are lead-, latex-, PVC-, BPA- and phthalate-free, and are for supervised use under the guidance of a therapist or trained carer. Change the Tips for work on speech and feeding skills. All Tips require a Z-Vibe® or Z-Grabber™. The Soft options are made from a softer, more resilient material for those with a bite reflex and/or sensory issues.

Z-Grabber™

The Z-Vibe® with a chewable grab loop handle. For clients who crave the vibration and sensory stimulation of the Z-Vibe, use this to transition them into working on biting and chewing skills. Also valuable with the vibration switched off. Includes 1 Textured Bite-n-Chew Tip XL and 1 Switch Tip. Battery included

Behaviour Management & Emotional Support

This section contains resources for self-management of a spectrum of behaviours and includes:

- The Positive Play Support Programme
- 4R (ROMPA® Rest, Recovery and Re-Orientation)
- Seclusion furniture
- Anger Management tools
- Expressions and emotions activities

Most of us are conscious of the need to look after our physical well-being through a healthy diet and sensible exercise regime. Our emotional well-being and mental health are equally important, and also require effort and planning.

Rest, Recovery & Re-Orientation - a joint initiative by ROMPA® and Ryall develop internal mechanisms for calming and foster understanding of rights and responsibilities - not least clients are encouraged to manage their own behaviour. This is an extension of existing interventions for a whole range of needs, and operates with the best interests of the person as its principle to safeguard people and respect the 'Duty of Care'. The initiative encourages the safety of the disruptive person, his peers and supervisors alike.

Whilst risk can never be eliminated, these environments aim to significantly reduce risk, the number of potential injuries, exclusions, holding and numbers of staff required. Children on the Autistic Spectrum may need the room as part of their Time Out Plan.

These rooms, typically 2m by 3m, are one part of a wider structured programme, that includes a support plan, an intervention plan and parental responsibility. Each installation is accompanied by detailed training to ensure the appropriate and safe use of the room. It is used in conjunction with all appropriate legislation and good practice policies. Please note: 4R rooms are not to be used as Snoezelen®, sensory or Seclusion rooms.

ROMPA® believes that innovation and reliability go hand in hand - trust ROMPA® to deliver what we promise.

In response to requests from our valued customers, ROMPA® has developed the Rest, Recovery & Re-Orientation Rooms, or '4R' environments.

Designed for demanding environments such as schools with BESD (EBD) students, offenders' institutes and prisons, these custom-made and fully-installed facilities offer a safe environment for those with challenging behaviours and aggressive tendencies. Carefully developed in conjunction with Tony Ryall, an expert in this field, the value of these rooms is becoming increasingly apparent. In the 4R environment, clients have the opportunity to calm down, rest, recuperate and recover in a secure, robust, damage-resistant environment for a carefully monitored minimal time. Most importantly, these environments encourage 're-orientation', such as the re-introduction of the person back into their usual environment.

To be used in conjunction with positive handling and appropriate physical management practice, these facilities offer a comfortable and calming area, which can be continually viewed by teachers, supervisors or competent staff from outside the room - without putting staff resources under increasing strain. In some cases, by replacing external factors (such as staff imposing control), these rooms can help

Positive Play... Positively thriving!

This unique scheme that helps children through play has developed from a relatively small Derbyshire based scheme into a significant UK wide programme supporting infants to young adults from all kinds of backgrounds, with all kinds of needs. From youngsters struggling with low self-esteem to older children coping with family break down and emotional turmoil, the Positive Play Support Programme has helped hundreds of families.

Initially designed to help those with low esteem or emotional or behavioural problems, the Positive Play Support Programme can be found in towns and rural districts, 'deprived' and affluent areas, in a variety of settings. The programme is well established in a purpose-built Centre, enabling children and young people to access support through structured play in a 'Rainbow Room' and a 'Magic Room', with Snoezelen® facilities.

- Implemented in many primary and secondary schools, the programme is for 3 - 20+ year olds and differentiated accordingly
- Increasingly used by Behaviour Support Services in England and Wales
- Widely recognised as synonymous with good practice
- Aims to raise self-esteem and helps access the curriculum and so achieve maximum potential
- Helps children and young people acquire personal, social and life skills
- Successfully applied in many non-academic settings including Women's Refuges, Social Services and Health Services facilities
- Continuing to promote intervention and prevention and so avoid exclusions
- Aims to provide continuity of care for the most vulnerable
